DP3721W  The Good Life (Online)

Offered: 2016: Semester 2
(Also available on campus – see DP3021W)
[Unit offered alternatively as BS3721W]

This unit will examine contemporary understandings of the good life in the light of biblical and theological traditions. Students will consider sociological, psychological and community development literature, alongside indicators of the good life in popular culture, including health and beauty, wealth, and leisure, and critique them from a biblical and theological standpoint.

Upon successful completion of this unit, it is expected that students will be able to:

1. Critically evaluate definitions of the good life
2. Demonstrate theological insight in analysing popular culture
3. Articulate the relationships between personal, social and environmental conceptions of wellbeing
4. Assess the relevance of selected biblical traditions to their own experience

Prerequisites: Foundational units in Field D & B

Class Time: Online

Assessment:
- One 1,500 word case study (30%)
- One 1,000 word theological reflection paper (30%)
- One 2,000 word essay (40%)

Faculty: Anne Mallaby & Mark Brett

Recommended Reading:
* = set texts recommended for purchase