

DM3027W Introduction to Chaplaincy

Offered: 2018: Semester 1
[Unit offered alternatively as DP3027W]

This unit introduces students to the ministry of the Chaplain, providing a biblical, theological and pastoral underpinning for the ministry of chaplaincy. Students will explore the relationship between pastoral and spiritual care with attention to the variety of contexts in which chaplaincy ministry can be expressed. Students will learn the art of reflecting theologically on ministry practice outside of the church.

Upon successful completion of this unit, it is expected that students will be able to:

1. articulate a biblical and theological basis for chaplaincy ministry;
2. outline and critique the challenges of ministering in diverse cultural and social contexts;
3. apply principles of cultural exegesis to chaplaincy contexts;
4. describe the constraints of ministering in an organisational context; and
5. reflect theologically on the ministry of chaplaincy both from a theoretical and a personal perspective.

Prerequisites: 15 points in Field D

Class Time: 9 x sessions of 4 hours each

Assessment:	Reading report (1,000 words)	(25%)
	Ministry context analysis (1,500 words)	(25%)
	Essay (2,500 words)	(50%)
