

DP2001W Theology and Practice of Pastoral Care

Offered: 2018: Semester 2

This unit provides an exploration of the biblical, theological and practical aspects of pastoral care as an expression of Christian life and ministry. Particular emphasis is given to biblical models of care, theological understandings of personhood and pastoral identity, and specific pastoral skills essential to the good practice of caring ministries.

Upon successful completion of this unit, it is expected that students will be able to:

1. identify and describe biblical and theological themes that inform a Christian commitment to pastoral care;
2. examine specific contemporary issues and challenges that impact upon the ministry of care;
3. outline a process of care that considers theological understandings, personal experience and basic helping-skills as tools in the effective practice of pastoral care; and
4. evaluate three theological themes relevant to the delivery of pastoral care.
